Nominee Background and Skill Sets:

Lindsey was one of the initial candidates for the CEO position at MANNA. Lindsey describes herself as follows: "I am a tattooed Southern queer who loves working with everyone from evangelical churches to business leaders and left wing organizers." She has a variety of experience across philanthropic, nonprofit, political and social justice work. She also has experienced poverty and being homeless.

Most recently she has been the ED for the Appalachia Funders Network, a member driven coalition of 60 diverse funders that invest hundreds of millions of dollars in central Appalachia. Lindsey has also served several roles as a volunteer at the YWCA of Asheville and with the City of Asheville working on affordable housing issues.

How do you feel this nominee would be able to contribute by being on the MANNA board?

Lindsey would bring such diversity to the board in every respect. She is very authentic and engaging. She would be a tremendous ambassador for MANNA in the community.

Please comment on the candidate's current involvement with MANNA and/or their demonstrated commitment to the MANNA mission: Lindsey is a current MANNA donor.
